PRESIDENTS WAGER ON OUTCOME GAME!

Almost as exciting as the Beverly/Salem football Thanksgiving is the betting and bragging rights. In the event of an unlikely Salem win, President Mike of Beverly said he would don a Shoeburtt suit and flop across bridge until he reached the Salem Police station. Where he will be fed a tin of sardines by Gigi. President Claire Kalleis of Salem not to be outdone, said in addition to "make it happen Salem" will, IF Beverly wins, borrow a broom from the pool of Witches residing downtown, fly over downtown Beverly and sing "who let the dogs out", which doesn't make sense but its her favorite karaoke song so she's going with it. Beverly Mayor Mike Cahill asked about his predictions on the game, would not comment, but was hoping that the Peabody or Danvers Rotary Clubs were available for lunch today. Salem Mayor Kim Driscoll asked about her predictions on the game, said "as Lieutenant Governor elect, Maura Healey and I are partaking in setting picks and dribbling." Note: As Lt. Governor elect she also has to give all 126 Thanksgiving rivalry games equal billing, we get it, will miss you Mayor Kim - Editor

Speakers

RE-classifications by John Shuka. And Rich Jones.

John was first and gave his take on business and how he ended up in appraisal business. Started in Portland, MA and met a stylish blonde who later became his wife Shelley. Moved back to Cape Ann area and now lives in Gloucester. Has 3 children with youngest up for some nice guy somewhere. mentioned his short stint as a sergeant but legacy is the Shuka Shtick.

Rich was next explaining he was voluntold to do a reclassification, talking about insurance and succumbing to the will of Les Ray to join insurance agent-y then onto Rotary. Never gave a classification back in 90's when he should have. Did a bit of show and tell with pictures of Diane (49 years) and he from 1973. Mustache has survived. Plus picture of Mike and Billy as young men in 90's. Also some state insurance stories which us regular folks have no idea.
