Last Weeks Speaker

David Reich was our speaker last week. David has had a successful career as a technology and thought leader. He combines that with his passion and talent as a magician, mentalist, and stage hypnotist to create unique experiences of Entertainment, Education, and Enlightenment. David discovered how the principles of a mystery performer can be used to become a better communicator overall, and using this unique insight, he has developed the Tactical Communication Method. David showed us some interesting magic but his main message was that success in all aspects of business and in life is about relationships and communications. David starting learning magic as a young boy and was hooked. He wanted to follow that path for his life, but his parents discouraged him so he has always kept magic as a hobby while becoming a tech executive and a speaker on improving your communication for success.
