SHORT WEEK DREAM!

Hey Mini-Matt, don't you like this short week change of venue? It frees up my Thursday to do a little world dominance and hold U.N. Hostage.

Listen bud, we vertically challenged people don't like being referred as mini or short or anything but vertically challenged. You don't hear me calling you large or huge Matt do you!

When the moon hits your eye like a juicy BBQ burger and fry, thats a change of venue.

When a drink is so cool makes you dance like a fool, thats a change of venue.

Hi sportsfans of BBQ and Horizon, here at Danvers Waterfront on a glorious Tuesday night enjoying fellowship and food. I know I'm looking forward to having Thursday off and drinking tonight to get the holiday weekend started early. Meooow!

– Samantha Ponder (yes I am a sports reporter)

Financial Advice

MONEY MATT-ers

Dear Matt,
I'm a big fan of golf and wanted to play on a course on the Cape this weekend. I have a 20 handicap so I'm not that great but I do like the challenge. Maybe a place that has international golfers so I can broker a deal? I'm a little concerned about sharks but I don't think they golf or even caddy, my wife wanted me to ask. Do you have any suggestions on what a good course would be (no farther than Hyannis)?
– Pip on Paramatta

Dear Pip,
This is a column dedicated to money matters and investment advice. I'm appalled that you asked golf questions in this space. You need to write to Putting with Piaker for that kind of advice.

1ST ANNUAL LEX CLASSIC

Lex proving that he isn't just a pretty face, as he donates $1000 to the rotary Scholarship Fund. This dough was from the Cummings CTR's Client Directed Giving program. Basically Lex has been a long time tenant of Cummings and was awarded this money to his favorite charity. "Men with Moustaches" was all set so he chose our club as a second choice to be the beneficiary of this money. This donation cements Lex's legacy of giving to our club and service above self and all that other goo that comes with do-gooding and being an all around nice guy. Did you know Lex is a former President and 8x Paul Harris Fellow. Thanks for the do-gooding Lex.
