Last weeks speaker

Junyong Pak, our first speaker of the year was a doozy. He is probably the first speaker to have a noise ordinance levied against him by city of Danvers for dragging a tire around during training runs. Spoke of his experiences during extreme events such as tough mudder, and other killer events. He did admit at table he is weakest in swimming leg of triathalons, and Sean suggested he could help him train in Lake Winnipisakie. He also mentioned if he ate this food every week he would certainly run even faster... away from the source. Was impressed by our giving back ethos.

athletic events. Junyong is Korean, educated in the US as an engineer. In 2006 he followed his heart's desire to become a competitive athlete including World's Toughest Muddler.
He has a drone photography business on the side.

Junyong spoke of his parents threshold for happiness as much lower than his own. As immigrants, they struggled to survive. Junyong believes if his family was affluent, he would not have had to freedom to know true happiness. His struggles in life gave him appreciation for who he is today and how he defines happiness.

9/11 Lost and Found: The Items Left Behind

On the morning of September 11, 55-year-old Robert Joseph Gschaar was working on the 92nd floor of the South Tower. At the time of the attack, he called his wife to let her know about the incident and reassured her that he would safely evacuate. Robert did not make it out of the tower alive. A year after the attacks his wallet and wedding ring were recovered.

Inside his wallet was a $2 bill. Robert and his wife, Myrta, carried around $2 bills during their 11-year marriage to remind each other that they were two of a kind.

people much more than names on a memorial.

The Swierczynski Swizzle Schtick

Well, well, well, gratifying to see many more Rotarians gathered round the bar now that summer has officially passed and both back-to-school (as in OUTTATHE HOUSE!) and back-to-work (as in wearing pants at an office) are in session. Wait a minute! Beep-beep-beep! Back up the truck: whoever thinks Labor Day means put away the white slacks and shut off the frozen drink blender had better review just who presides over this mixfest. After that monsoon of a summer, please join me in a class action suit to reclaim at least another month of sunny balmy days. And to prolong summer indulgence, may I call upon that most pragmatic of judges, Billings Learned Hand. While Learned Hand never achieved a perch on the Supreme Court, his clear and precise judicial opinions are legend and have been quoted in more Supreme Court opinions than any other lower court justice. Who can resist a jurist who believes, "There is nothing sinister in arranging one's affairs as to keep taxes as low as possible."? As every student of law is familiar with the Hand Formula in determining liability in cases of negligence, may I suggest that we rejigger his formula into a recipe for the FROZEN LEARNED HAND-SHAKE: Take 1 oz Dark Rum; 1 oz Coffee Liqueur; 1 oz Crème de Cacao; 2 oz Cream of Coconut; 2 oz Whole Milk plus a cup of ice and beat with a "thicket of verbiage" (as Hand described the IRS Tax Code) or combine in a blender. Blend until smooth. Pour into a hurricane glass and garnish with Bosco, favorite chocolate syrup of both Learned Hand and George Costanza. Down the hatch!

And remember a learned hand beats two in the blender.
